HISTORY ON REAL POSTCARDS

Shortly after the invention of photography in the mid 19th century, tourists began documenting their travels with souvenir photo portraits. Photo studios were hugely popular attractions at state fairs, carnivals, and downtown arcades. Printed on penny postcards these images were mailed across the country to family and friends. One of the most cherished backdrops was the “paper moon” – a cut-out crescent moon set in front of a painted backdrop with stars...” - Excerpt from Lymon Allyn Art Museum.
